

1. Essay Evaluation

★ 1. Consistency ★

Thematic Uniformity:

✓ Strengths: The essay consistently adheres to the theme of gender justice, exploring historical, social, economic, and political dimensions. The examples—ranging from reformist movements to contemporary labor force participation—are well-connected to the central theme.

➡ Improvement Suggestion: At times, the essay could benefit from stronger links between historical examples and modern policy discussions. For instance, linking the gender reforms during the colonial period more directly to ongoing efforts in Amrit Kaal could create a stronger sense of continuity.

Balanced Coverage:

✓ Strengths: The essay does a commendable job of covering multiple dimensions (social, political, historical, and economic). References to feminist thinkers, legal reforms, and labor force participation highlight the diversity of issues.

➡ Underexplored Dimension: The environmental and ethical dimensions of gender justice could be included. For example, gender-based challenges in climate change or the ethical considerations of women's unpaid domestic labor could add depth.

Logical Consistency:

✓ Strengths: The essay maintains logical consistency by tracing gender inequality from the Neolithic period to the present and offering structured solutions.

➡ Improvement Area: Some historical transitions—such as from the Vedic period to colonial India—feel abrupt. Smoother bridging could enhance the logical flow.

💡 Suggestion: Add brief summaries or linking sentences between different timeframes for better coherence.

🔗 2. Coherency 🔗

Comprehensive Answer Evaluation Report by PRAGYESH IAS

Logical Sequence:

- ✓ Strengths: The essay follows a logical progression, starting with historical foundations, analyzing the causes and effects of gender inequality, and ending with potential solutions.
- ➡ Improvement Area: The section on feminist thinkers like Simone de Beauvoir could be better connected to the proposed solutions at the end.
- 💡 Suggestion: Explicitly reference how her ideas on gender roles influence the practical steps outlined in the conclusion.

Transitions and Connectors:

- ➡ Weakness: Although ideas are well-developed, some sections lack smooth transitions, such as moving from social stereotyping to feminist solutions.
- 💡 Suggestion: Use phrases like “Building upon this historical perspective...” or “Drawing from earlier discussions...” to bridge gaps and enhance fluidity.

Thematic Linkage:

- ✓ Strengths: Most paragraphs contribute to a unified narrative of addressing gender justice.
- ➡ Weak Point: The shift from discussing literacy and LFPR (Labor Force Participation Rate) to the solution-oriented conclusion feels abrupt. A brief connector summarizing the challenges before moving to solutions would help.

3. Content Evaluation

🔍 Depth and Relevance:

- ✓ Strengths: The essay presents well-researched arguments covering historical, socio-political, and economic factors related to gender justice. The discussion on feminist literature (e.g., Simone de Beauvoir's The Second Sex) and references to labor force participation (LFPR) highlight depth in specific areas.

- ➡ Areas for Improvement: Some sections could benefit from more focused analysis. For instance, the historical transition from gender-based labor roles to modern gender inequality could be explored with a deeper discussion on how colonial or post-independence policies shaped today's landscape.

Comprehensive Answer Evaluation Report by PRAGYESH IAS

 Suggestion: Introduce a short comparison between traditional and modern gender roles with references to ongoing government initiatives like Beti Bachao, Beti Padhao to connect past challenges to current efforts.

Factual Accuracy:

 Strengths: The essay effectively references credible sources, such as IMF, ICRIER reports, and historical figures like Raja Ram Mohan Roy and Ishwar Chandra Vidyasagar. These examples support the narrative.

 Improvement Suggestion: Verify the accuracy of the claim regarding India's GDP increasing by 27% if gender parity in LFPR is achieved. Ensure that all data points have current, reliable citations.

Balanced Perspective:

 Strengths: The essay does a good job presenting both the challenges of gender stereotyping and the opportunities for change through education and legal reforms. The discussion of women's empowerment versus women-led empowerment is insightful.

 Suggestion: Strengthen the balance by including international comparisons. For example, mentioning Bangladesh's success in female labor force participation versus India's challenges could present a broader comparative outlook.

Multidimensional Approach:

 Strengths: The essay explores historical, political, and economic dimensions in depth. The cultural and social aspects are also discussed through references to family expectations and societal norms.

 Weak Point: The environmental and ethical dimensions are underdeveloped.

 Suggestion: Include content on women's roles in sustainable development or ethical considerations of unpaid domestic labor. For example, discussing how environmental policies impact rural women in agriculture could add depth.

Comprehensive Answer Evaluation Report by PRAGYESH IAS

✓ Examples and Case Studies:

✓ Strengths: Effective historical references, feminist thinkers, and legal reforms provide strong support for the arguments. The reference to SHGs like Jeevika is particularly relevant.

➡ Areas to Strengthen: The section discussing labor force participation and gender traps could be supplemented with real-life success stories from government programs like Mahila E-Haat or Stand-Up India.

4. Introduction Evaluation

🔍 Engaging Hook:

✓ Strengths: The opening lines referencing India's Constitution set the tone well.

➡ Improvement Suggestion: The introduction could be more engaging by starting with a quote, a fact, or a rhetorical question. For example, opening with a quote from Ruth Bader Ginsburg or Kamla Bhasin on gender equality could be impactful.

✓ Context Setting:

✓ Strengths: The essay provides historical and legal context, highlighting how gender inequality is a longstanding issue rooted in societal structures.

➡ Minor Improvement: Briefly define or contextualize key terms like "gender justice" for clarity.

✓ Central Theme or Thesis Statement:

✓ Strengths: The thesis is clear and touches upon multiple aspects of gender justice.

➡ Improvement Suggestion: Expand the thesis slightly to preview the essay's multidimensional approach explicitly (e.g., mention social, economic, and political aspects). This will help guide the reader more effectively through the essay.

Comprehensive Answer Evaluation Report by PRAGYESH IAS

🔍 Final Remarks:

✓ Strengths: The essay excels in providing depth and a variety of perspectives on gender justice. Historical narratives and proposed solutions are well-developed.

➡ Overall Suggestion: Refine the introduction with an engaging hook and expand on underexplored dimensions like environmental and ethical issues for a more comprehensive discussion.

5. Conclusion Evaluation

✓ Summarizing the Core Argument:

✓ Strengths: The conclusion effectively reiterates the core argument that gender justice requires recognizing women's leadership potential, moving from passive empowerment to women-led change. The mention of transformative approaches like "autonomy through agency" reinforces key themes.

➡ Areas for Improvement: The summary could be more concise by eliminating redundancy. Some parts repeat previously discussed ideas, diluting the impact of the conclusion.

💡 Suggestion: Summarize key arguments in fewer lines and maintain a tighter focus on forward-looking solutions (e.g., women-led empowerment through economic participation and inclusive social structures).

🌟 Visionary or Inspirational Tone:

✓ Strengths: The forward-looking tone with phrases like "Let's move from gender inequality to gender parity" and "globalize feminism" sets an optimistic vision.

➡ Areas for Improvement: The conclusion could have a stronger emotional appeal by using motivational language or ending with an inspiring quote.

💡 Suggestion: Include a quote from a prominent figure (e.g., Malala Yousafzai or Michelle Obama) or use a metaphor that illustrates growth and transformation. For example, "As a tree grows stronger when its roots are nurtured, society can only thrive when gender justice is at its core."

Comprehensive Answer Evaluation Report by PRAGYESH IAS

💡 Rhetorical Techniques:

- ✓ Strengths: The use of repetition, such as “Let’s pledge,” creates a rhythmic and persuasive effect.
- ➡ Opportunities for Enhancement: More varied rhetorical devices, such as metaphors or analogies, could enhance the emotional appeal.
- 💡 Suggestion: Incorporate phrases like “Unlocking women’s potential is unlocking the future” or use poetic alliterations like “From subjugation to self-sufficiency, let’s forge a new path.”

6. Additional Checklist

📝 Language and Grammar:

- ✓ Strengths: The language is mostly formal and appropriate for a UPSC essay.
- ➡ Areas for Improvement: There are minor grammatical errors and occasional awkward phrases (e.g., “bringing reforms India was fortunate” could be “India was fortunate to have reformers”).
- 💡 Suggestion: Proofread for subject-verb agreement, article usage, and smoother sentence structure to enhance clarity.

⌚ Tone and Style:

- ✓ Strengths: The essay maintains a professional tone, effectively blending analytical discussion with practical insights.
- ➡ Suggestion: Minor adjustments in the transition from analytical to reflective sections could make the tone more seamless. For example, transitions like “Given this historical context...” could improve flow.

📏 Word Limit and Focus:

- ✓ Strengths: The essay is comprehensive and includes well-supported arguments.
- ➡ Areas for Improvement: Some sections, particularly in the historical discussion, could be trimmed to reduce repetition.
- 💡 Suggestion: Condense historical examples and redistribute that space to underdeveloped dimensions (e.g., ethical or environmental aspects).

2. Essay Evaluation

1. Consistency: ★

- Thematic Uniformity:

✓ The essay consistently addresses the central theme of challenging gender constructs and exploring empowerment through individuality and freedom. The examples of Malala Yousafzai, gender pay gap, glass ceiling, and SDG goals are well-connected to the overall topic. However, the inclusion of certain topics, such as feminization of agriculture, could be better aligned or elaborated on to connect with the core argument more explicitly.

 Suggestion for Improvement: Further explanation on how these broader dimensions like agriculture or property rights directly affect women's empowerment will enhance clarity and thematic consistency.

- Balanced Coverage:

✓ The essay covers multiple key dimensions—social, political, economic, and cultural aspects of gender inequality. The analysis includes modern contexts (e.g., glass ceiling, missing women) and traditional perspectives (e.g., dowry, intersectionality). However, environmental and ethical dimensions are underexplored.

 Suggestion for Improvement: Integrating perspectives on how environmental policies, resource access, or ethical debates (e.g., human rights) shape gender equality could provide a more comprehensive view.

- Logical Consistency:

✓ The essay maintains logical progression through historical and modern perspectives, connecting gender inequality with social conditions and empowerment. However, some transitions (e.g., between feminist theories and economic interventions) feel abrupt.

 Suggestion for Improvement: Rephrase or add transitional sentences between sections like feminism's theoretical role and policy interventions to maintain smoother logical flow.

2. Coherency: 📜

- Logical Sequence:

✓ The introduction is compelling and sets the stage by telling Malala's story, making a smooth entry into broader issues. The body of the essay follows a logical flow, moving from historical roots of inequality to modern interventions and concluding with a global perspective.

✗ However, the transition between feminist constructs and practical policy interventions could be better structured to improve clarity.

✍ Suggestion for Improvement: Reorganize the section on feminist theories before practical interventions to create a seamless narrative.

- Transitions and Connectors:

✗ Although some sections are connected well, transitional phrases such as "thus," "in continuation," or "as a result" could be more effectively used between ideas to guide the reader.

✍ Suggestion for Improvement: Add linking words when transitioning from discussing gender stereotypes to economic outcomes or policy responses.

- Thematic Linkage:

✓ Most paragraphs are interconnected and contribute to the unified narrative of addressing social constructs. However, a few examples, such as the feminization of agriculture and property rights issues, require clearer linkage to the essay's central argument.

✍ Suggestion for Improvement: Explicitly connect these issues to how they limit women's autonomy and potential for empowerment.

3. Content: 🌎

- Depth and Relevance:

✓ The essay is insightful, especially when discussing Malala

Yousafzai's story, gender pay gap, and glass ceiling issues, which reflect real-world challenges of gender inequality. The historical tracing of gender roles from pre-agricultural societies to modern work environments is thoughtful.

✗ However, certain arguments, such as feminization of agriculture and intersectionality, need deeper exploration to highlight their direct impact on women's empowerment.

✍ Suggestion for Improvement: Provide more in-depth discussion of how feminization of agriculture and property rights issues directly hinder women's economic participation.

- Factual Accuracy:

✓ The use of facts such as the IMF report on LFPR (Labor Force Participation Rate) and ICRIER literacy data demonstrates credibility. However, some data could benefit from precise numerical evidence and proper attribution to enhance accuracy.

✗ For example, the “Bangladesh female labor participation rate” could include specific figures for better impact.

✍ Suggestion for Improvement: Include sources or footnotes where applicable to enhance the credibility of factual claims.

- Balanced Perspective:

✓ The essay presents a fairly balanced perspective, showcasing both challenges and solutions (e.g., intersectionality issues vs. SDG gender goals). Positive advancements, such as government policies and social media-driven campaigns (MeToo movement), are covered alongside societal constraints like dowry and stereotypes.

✗ However, the essay leans more on highlighting challenges, with fewer success stories or case studies on how gender equality has been improved globally.

✍ Suggestion for Improvement: Add more examples of successful reforms or global initiatives (e.g., Rwanda's women-led parliament, Scandinavian gender policies) to present a balanced narrative.

- Multidimensional Approach:

✓ The essay does well in covering social, political, cultural, and economic dimensions but lacks adequate exploration of environmental and ethical perspectives. For example, how environmental degradation or access to natural resources impacts gender equity isn't touched upon.

 Suggestion for Improvement: Consider integrating environmental and ethical dimensions, such as discussing how climate change disproportionately affects women in rural areas or the ethical debates surrounding gender quotas.

- Examples and Case Studies:

 The inclusion of Malala Yousafzai, Bangladesh's labor force participation, and John Rawls' theory strengthens the argument. However, some areas, such as feminization of agriculture and gender traps, could be more compelling with additional case studies or empirical examples.

 Suggestion for Improvement: Add concrete case studies, such as Scandinavian countries' gender-equal policies, to show that gender empowerment is achievable through proper interventions.

4. Introduction:

- Engaging Hook:

 The introduction is highly engaging, opening with Malala's quote and her life story, which immediately draws the reader's attention.

 Suggestion for Improvement: To enhance it further, consider including a shocking fact or statistic on gender inequality alongside the personal story.

- Context Setting:

 The introduction provides sufficient background on gender inequality and social constructs through the lens of Malala's experiences. It also defines the scope of discussion regarding freedom and individuality.

 Suggestion for Improvement: Consider briefly mentioning intersectionality and economic dimensions in the introduction to set the stage for a comprehensive analysis.

- Central Theme or Thesis Statement:

 The thesis is well-stated, emphasizing that social constructs limit empowerment and that freedom and individuality are essential for gender justice. However, it could explicitly preview the multidimensional aspects explored in the essay.

 Suggestion for Improvement: Refine the thesis to explicitly mention that the essay will explore historical, social, political, and economic perspectives on gender constructs.

5. Conclusion:

- Summarizing the Core Argument:

 The conclusion effectively ties the essay together by reiterating the need for individuality, gender parity, and structural reforms, emphasizing the importance of SDG 5 and feminism. The "gender-led empowerment" call provides a solid summary.

 However, the final summary could be more concise by avoiding repetitive elements. For example, phrases like "globalizing feminism" could be unified under a stronger thematic closing.

 Suggestion for Improvement: Summarize the key points in a more condensed manner by focusing on the core solutions (economic, social, and policy-oriented approaches) and leave out minor redundancies.

- Visionary or Inspirational Tone:

 The conclusion ends on an optimistic and forward-looking note by aligning with SDG 5 (gender equality), feminism, and women-led empowerment, which are all powerful aspirations. The quotes used add an emotional touch to the vision.

 Suggestion for Improvement: To make it more impactful, consider concluding with a short, punchy quote or powerful statement about the transformation of women's roles. An inspirational statement could highlight the ripple effect of empowering one woman on society as a whole.

- Rhetorical Techniques:

 The essay employs repetition effectively (e.g., "Let's aim to..."). The Mahatma Gandhi quote adds weight and emotional depth.

 However, more rhetorical devices, such as metaphors or powerful imagery, could be used to create a lasting impact.

Comprehensive Answer Evaluation Report by PRAGYESH IAS

 Suggestion for Improvement: Consider a metaphor for breaking the “glass ceiling” or something symbolic that represents women’s collective struggle and progress.

6. Additional Checklist:

- Language and Grammar:

 There are a few minor grammatical issues, such as:

- “He Nomo is Malala Yousuf Zai” → should be “Her name is Malala Yousafzai.”
- “Subbordinate” → should be “subordinate.”
- “Women engagement has increased” → could be refined to “Women’s engagement has increased.”

 Suggestion for Improvement: A thorough proofreading session is necessary to correct these minor issues and improve readability.

- Tone and Style:

 The tone is formal and mostly suitable for a UPSC essay. It demonstrates analytical depth, but some sections could be made more refined.

 Suggestion for Improvement: Ensure that transitional phrases and clear sentence structures are consistent throughout to improve the flow of ideas.

- Word Limit and Focus:

 The essay stays within the general UPSC word limit while maintaining relevance to the topic. However, certain repetitive sections, like repeated references to globalizing feminism, could be trimmed.

 Suggestion for Improvement: Consider removing or condensing repetitive discussions on gender traps or glass ceilings to free space for additional dimensions, such as environmental or ethical aspects.

3. Essay Evaluation

1. Consistency

Thematic Uniformity:

✓ The essay stays mostly aligned with the central theme of women empowerment and how it resolves the tension between paternalistic intervention and individual freedom. Examples like Tessy Thomas, sportswomen, and rural women's struggles are relevant and support the core idea.

✗ Minor Observation: Some areas, like gender stereotypes in movies and eco-feminism, could be better connected to the main argument of paternalism versus individual agency.

Suggestion for Improvement: Integrate these examples by explicitly showing how paternalism affects these dimensions and how individual agency could resolve them.

Balanced Coverage:

✓ The essay explores various dimensions:

- Social Dimension: Gender stereotypes, internalized patriarchy
- Political Dimension: Political exclusion and patriarchy in governance
- Cultural Dimension: Gender roles and feudal structures
- Economic Dimension: Employment, pay gaps, and sports participation
- Environmental Dimension: Eco-feminism and climate change

✗ Underexplored Dimensions:

- Ethical/Philosophical Dimension: More discussion on how empowerment impacts moral and philosophical development of society could add depth.
- Legal Dimension: While legal frameworks are mentioned, specific policies or acts could further ground the arguments.

Logical Consistency:

✓ The essay generally maintains logical flow, with sections building progressively from historical constraints to modern empowerment mechanisms.

X In some places, examples like internalized patriarchy and mother-in-law dynamics appear abruptly.

Suggestion: Smooth transitions explaining how these fit within broader themes of patriarchy would improve cohesiveness.

2. Coherency

Logical Sequence:

✓ The essay starts with an engaging example of Tessy Thomas, then systematically addresses questions related to empowerment, agency, and societal barriers.

X In the second half, discussions on eco-feminism and media representation feel less connected to the flow.

Suggestion: Organize the sections to show how each dimension progressively builds toward resolving the central conflict of paternalism vs agency.

Transitions and Connectors:

✓ Transitions between the early sections (e.g., from the meaning of empowerment to real-world examples) are smooth.

X Some transitions, especially between eco-feminism and societal patriarchy, are abrupt.

Suggestion: Use linking phrases such as “building on this idea”, “in a similar vein”, or “this is further evident in” to improve flow.

Thematic Linkage:

✓ Most paragraphs contribute to the central theme of empowerment through individual agency, but some subtopics (e.g., media representation) could benefit from tighter connections.

X Suggestion: Reinforce the link between media stereotypes and societal perceptions of women to ensure consistency.

Suggested Revision:

“By addressing media biases that perpetuate gender stereotypes, society can move closer to breaking down paternalistic views and empowering women through individual choices.”

3. Content

🔍 Depth and Relevance:

✓ Strengths: The essay presents a wide range of arguments that are relevant to women empowerment and its interplay between paternalistic intervention and individual freedom. Topics such as internalized patriarchy, eco-feminism, feudal structures, and gender inequality are explored in detail.

✗ Suggestions for Improvement:

- Some arguments, like those discussing gender roles in feudal society and intersectionality, could be expanded to provide deeper analysis.
- Gaps: The essay does not sufficiently explore global perspectives (e.g., international case studies, successful global policy examples) that could provide a comparative context.

Example: Discuss how countries like Norway or Rwanda, known for high gender equality, addressed similar challenges.

🔍 Factual Accuracy:

✓ Strengths: The use of references like the Economic Survey (2017-18) and case studies such as Sakshi Malik and Tessy Thomas ground the arguments in real-world evidence.

✗ Suggestions:

Ensure accurate citations of quotes like “Personal is Political” and data regarding pay gaps and employment participation.

Example: When mentioning the Economic Survey, provide specific data (e.g., female labor force participation rate).

🔍 Balanced Perspective:

✓ Strengths: The essay covers both challenges (patriarchal constraints) and solutions (empowerment through agency approaches). Issues like pay gaps, internalized patriarchy, and media representation present a comprehensive problem analysis.

✗ Suggestions:

- Include additional perspectives such as the potential drawbacks of empowerment models or challenges of implementation in rural settings.

Comprehensive Answer Evaluation Report by PRAGYESH IAS

- Discuss positive examples of empowered women leading social change to avoid a one-sided view of barriers.

Example: Highlight successful rural women-led programs (e.g., SEWA – Self-Employed Women's Association).

🔍 Multidimensional Approach:

✓ Strengths: The essay explores multiple dimensions, such as:

- Social: Gender roles, internalized patriarchy
- Cultural: Feudal structures, intersectionality
- Economic: Gender pay gaps, labor force participation
- Environmental: Eco-feminism, climate justice

✗ Suggestions for Improvement:

- Expand the ethical dimension, discussing how empowerment relates to morality and human dignity.
- Incorporate the legal dimension with examples of laws supporting women (e.g., The Maternity Benefits Act).

Example: Discuss gender quotas in political representation as part of the political dimension.

🔍 Examples and Case Studies:

✓ Strengths: Examples of Tessy Thomas, Malala Yousafzai, and sports icons like Sakshi Malik are well-used to substantiate points.

✗ Suggestions:

- Include more case studies or anecdotes for deeper impact, especially from grassroots movements or international contexts.

Example: Discuss the Grameen Bank's success in empowering rural women through microfinance.

4. Introduction

🔍 Engaging Hook:

✓ Strengths: The use of Kofi Annan's quote ("No better tool of empowerment than women themselves") provides a strong starting point.

Comprehensive Answer Evaluation Report by PRAGYESH IAS

✗ Suggestions for Improvement: Consider starting with a compelling anecdote, fact, or question to capture attention.

Example: Start with a shocking statistic or a rhetorical question:

"Why do women constitute half the world's population but only a fraction of its wealth owners?"

🔍 Context Setting:

✓ Strengths: The essay provides adequate background on patriarchal structures and the tension between agency and paternalism.

✗ Suggestions: Expand the discussion on paternalism by defining it clearly for readers who may be unfamiliar with the concept.

Example:

"Paternalism, the control exercised by those in power under the guise of protection, has historically hindered the individual agency of women."

🔍 Central Theme or Thesis Statement:

✓ Strengths: The central theme—empowering women through individual choice and collective agency—is clear.

✗ Suggestions for Improvement: Provide a brief preview of the dimensions covered in the essay to guide the reader.

Example:

"This essay will explore how historical, social, and economic dimensions have shaped women's empowerment and how collective agency can pave the way for sustainable gender justice."

5. Conclusion ✨

🔍 Summarizing the Core Argument:

✓ Strengths: The conclusion effectively summarizes key points about gender traps, paternalistic interventions, and women's agency. It reinforces the essay's central theme that real empowerment lies in recognizing individual freedom.

✗ Suggestions for Improvement: The summary could be made more concise by eliminating repetitive statements. Streamline the key takeaways, emphasizing the link between empowerment and sustainable development.

Comprehensive Answer Evaluation Report by PRAGYESH IAS

Example: End with a crisp statement such as:

“Empowerment is not a favor to women but a necessity for a just and inclusive society.”

🔍 Visionary or Inspirational Tone:

✓ Strengths: The ending incorporates an aspirational tone, especially with references to dreams of empowered women and equitable society.

✗ Suggestions: Consider using a powerful concluding quote or call to action to inspire the reader.

Example:

“Let us not just dream of a gender-equitable world; let us create it with policies, agency, and collective action.”

Adding reference to SDG 5 (Gender Equality) provides a broader global goal, enhancing the vision.

🔍 Rhetorical Techniques:

✓ Strengths: The conclusion uses repetition effectively, especially with phrases like “I have a dream...” which resonates emotionally.

✗ Suggestions: Introduce metaphors or poetic phrases to leave a lasting impact.

Example:

“Empowering women is like sowing seeds of prosperity—when women rise, society blossoms.”

6. Additional Checklist ✓

🔍 Language and Grammar:

✓ Strengths: The essay generally maintains formal, precise language, suitable for a UPSC essay.

✗ Suggestions: A few minor grammatical errors (e.g., sentence fragments, subject-verb disagreements) need correction. Proofread for clarity and fix phrases like:

- “From birth, freedom of girl child is limited.” → “From birth, the freedom of a girl child is restricted.”

Comprehensive Answer Evaluation Report by PRAGYESH IAS

- “Feudal patriarchal and patrilineal society developed.” → “Feudal, patriarchal, and patrilineal society developed.”

🔍 Tone and Style:

✓ Strengths: The tone is professional, analytical, and conveys critical depth.

✗ Suggestions: Avoid overly lengthy descriptions—focus on maintaining a balance between insightful depth and clear readability.

🔍 Word Limit and Focus:

✓ Strengths: The essay appears to stay within acceptable word limits, covering all dimensions thoroughly.

✗ Suggestions: Trim redundant sections or repetitive sentences to enhance readability.

Example: Combine or eliminate sentences that restate ideas like: “Women suffer from gender-based discrimination due to feudal and patriarchal legacies.” This could be integrated into earlier discussions to maintain conciseness.
